

Tantrum?

Or is he having an autism-related 'meltdown' ?

Autism and Asperger's syndrome are 'invisible' conditions, affecting 1 in 100 children and adults, many of whom are undiagnosed. You having a better knowledge of the condition can make all the difference to their lives.

For support, guidance and information
visit our new autism website

www.kirklees.gov.uk/autism

One of these men has autism... can you tell which?

Autism is a hidden disability.

Autism affects 1 in 100 people, many of whom are undiagnosed. You having a better knowledge of the condition can make all the difference to their lives.

For support, guidance and information
visit our new autism website

www.kirklees.gov.uk/autism

Mike, an engineering apprentice, was top of his class for science and maths.

He happens to have Asperger's syndrome.

Autism and Asperger's Syndrome are 'invisible' conditions, affecting 1 in 100 people, many of whom are undiagnosed. With the right support and understanding, they can reach for the sky.

For support, guidance and information
visit our new autism website

www.kirklees.gov.uk/autism

